

STATIC-X TOUR EUROPE WITH ELECTRO-VOICE®

True believers: Static-X with the EV banner before their appearance at "Rock im Park" in Nuremberg

Static-X is currently touring Europe packing microphones from Electro-Voice.

Straubing, Germany (June 2004): One of the star bands at both the 'Rock am Ring' and 'Rock im Park' mega festivals was without question Static-X. Over 120,000 people at the two events were entertained by their dynamic brand of heavy metal as well as their electrifying stage show. The performances at Nuremberg and the Nürburgring on the first weekend in June were the opening salvos in a European tour that takes in Barcelona, Paris, Dublin, London, Glasgow, Helsinki and Stockholm.

Electro-Voice plays a key role in Static-X's sound design. The band, which established itself as a major force in Nu Metal with its debut album 'Wisconsin Death Trip' in 1998, swears by EV microphones and has been using them for three years now. Microphone selection is tailored as follows to the style and needs of each member of the band:

Wayne Static (voc,g): EV N/D767a, EV N/D967, EV RE1
 Nick Oshiro (dr): EV N/D468, EV N/D868, EV RE200
 Tripp Eisen (g): EV RE1
 Tony Campos (bg): EV RE1
